South Dakota DOT opens I-90 and a portion of I-29

South Dakota Department of Transportation officials announce Interstate 90 is now open and Interstate 29 between Sisseton and Watertown is open. I-29 between Watertown and Sioux Falls is expected to remain closed until weather conditions improve and crews are able to open the roadway on Monday morning. South Dakota officials ask the traveling public to check road conditions that have been posted to their SD website: www.safetravelusa.com/sd/.

The North Dakota Department of Transportation (NDDOT) lifted the Travel Alert statewide for all regions throughout North Dakota. Motorists should be aware that there may be areas of scattered ice and snow conditions on state roadways. For road information, call 511 from any type of phone or go to the NDDOT website: www.dot.nd.gov.
